

Wednesday Walk – North Black Range – Tallaganda National Park – 12 February 2014

The North Black Range runs off the Mulloon Fire Trail along the north-western side of Tallaganda National Park. We made a stop about 1km along the fire trail to look at the good display of purple Dianella tasmanica berries. There were also some lovely trees and tree ferns – Cyathea australis- as well as Xerochrysum bracteatum (with closed flowers) and red berries on Coprosma quadrifida. At the second stop we walked along an old track to the no longer used trig on some huge granite boulders. Interesting plants were Acacia melanoxylon, Pomaderris aspera and Persoonia silvatica. We then drove further and explored a swamp and found some flowers on Epacris microphylla, Leptospermum myrtifolium, Arthropodium sp., Geranium neglectum, Baeckea utilis, Brachyscome graminea, Xerochrysum subundulatum, Utricularia dichotoma, Dipodium roseum, Eriochilus magenteus and also found a population of Diplodinium coccinum in full flower.
